DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tundermann'584 in view of Levine'087.

The applied Tundermann'584 teaches that it is well known in the art to make and use copper -based metal flakes that contain at least one additional alloy component. See column 2, lines 25-45, column 6, lines 38-66, column 7, lines 1-18, column 11, lines 15-20, claims. The Tundrmann'584 does not specifically teach that flakes are produced via vacuum deposition, stripping and comminuting. However, Levine'087 discloses that it is common in the art to produce metal flakes via vacuum deposition, stripping of the films and subsequent comminuting of the films. See column 4, lines 1-59.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to use teachings of Levine'087 in Tundrmann'584 to improve mechanical and visual properties of resulting metal particles. Also, it would have been obvious to make metal flakes having the anticorrosive layer of oxide since such would prevent oxidation of the particle surfaces. Finally, it would have been obvious to optimize process steps in production of particles since such would improve surface properties of such particles.

The amendments and remarks filed by Applicants in their last response have been fully considered. The claims, however, remain unpatentable in view of the above rejections. Applicants have mainly argued that the cited prior art does not teach the vacuum deposition of alloy metal films. Arguments have not been persuasive. The examiner points out that claims relate to article and therefor the method steps included do not have a patentable weight because there is no evidence on the record that the article is different from the article obtain by another method. Furthermore, the examiner points out that deposition of alloys is routine in the art and it would have been obvious from the teachings of the Levine'087 do deposit alloys.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
